Dear Scott,

There have been many fine cards and we appreciate them all very much but your's is the finest, the warmest, and we both appreciate it very much.

We have tried to live that way and are glad that at least you think we have!

Bill, whose birthday is tomorrow, was really touched, as I was too.

I got one from a friend in New Zealand that may interest you.

It is in the Maori language.

It is kia kaha.

He says it means get strong.

How I wish I could!

Between us we look back on many years. Tomorrow it will be 187 of them between us.

Some have been hard, difficult.

But there has been a wonderful reward.

The many fine people we've met because of it.

It means much to us. Thanks.

Harold Weisberg
